UNTHA America Adds to Staff

HAMPTON, NH--UNTHA shredding technology America, Inc. continues to grow and has added another member to its staff. Located in Hampton, NH, UNTHA America is a division of the Austrian-based UNTHA shredding technology GmbH, one of the world's leading providers of size reduction equipment for the recycling industry. Joining the U.S. team is Kenneth Tran as a sales engineer. Tran will service clients throughout the United States and Canada, and will specialize in those involved in the recycling of plastics. He will primarily be based at UNTHA's Nashville, TN office, but will also work out of the Hampton headquarters.

Tran has an extensive background in recycling sales, especially in the area of equipment for recycling plastics. He notes that there is an extensive need for recycling equipment that can handle plastics in the agricultural, municipal waste, medical and xx industries. UNTHA is one of the few companies which sells equipment geared towards plastics recycling.

"Ken is a great addition to our team," says Bernhard Martinz, president and CEO of UNTHA America. "His joining us allows us to reach out to more companies throughout North America to assist them with their recycling needs. He brings extensive experience to the position, so clients will be dealing with a very knowledgeable sales representative."

Tran, who has been involved with the recycling industry for nine years, is excited to begin his career with UNTHA.

"I'm pleased to join UNTHA," says Tran. "The company has a great reputation and the shredding technology is state of the art. I know that this will be a boon to many companies looking to invest in the latest recycling equipment. I look forward to introducing them to UNTHA."
